Tyee Creeping Bentgrass At Koorungal Golf Club

Tyee is a new high density variety

Tyee creeping bentgrass has been sown into 4 new greens at Koorungal Golf Club at Altona in western Melbourne. The greens were sown through January and February and have been quick to establish and have shown no signs of disease incidence. Tyee is performing extremely well in the current NTEP trials and has been bred to provide the superintendent with a high density variety with less thatch.
